Project 2 Lebanese International University (LIU) RESCUE, Refugees Education Support in MENA Countries	The main specific objective of RESCUE is to help the Partner Country Universities in structuring an effective response to this problem, by creating ad hoc units (the Refugee Student Operational Support Unit – R-SOS), whose mission is to structure specific services supporting the refugee students in resuming their academic training path. The analysis carried out by the target Universities has shown that each one of them has different approaches and constraints vis-à-vis this problem, therefore ad hoc solutions must be implemented in each one of them.	Reference 573665-EPP-1-2016-1-IT-EPPKA2-CBHE-JP	Status: IP Project duration: From 15/10/2016 to 14/10/2020 Partners <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Sapienza University, Italy - UB, Universitat de Barcelona, Spain - TUB, Technische Universitaet Berlin, Germany - IAU, Istanbul Aydin University, Turkey - USEK, Holy Spirit University of Kaslik, Lebanon - UB, Lebanese University, Lebanon - UoD, University of Duhok, Iraq - DPU, Duhok Polytechnic University, Iraq - AArU, Association of Arab Universities, Jordan - YU, Yarmouk University, Jordan - ZUJ, Al-Zaytoonah University of Jordan, Jordan - ZU, Zarqa University, Jordan - Link: https://www.rescuerefugees.eu/about-rescue/

Project 7 Lebanese International University (LIU) Erasmus+ Project IRHAL	In the framework of the IRHAL project, funded by the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International cooperation, the Italian University of Cagliari and three Lebanese universities members of the UNIMED network (Lebanese University, Lebanese International University, USEK – Holy Spirit of Kaslik) have joined efforts to carry out a research with the aim to analyse the participation of the youth community (and within it specifically students) in the protest movements that took place in Lebanon in 2019. The final report, titled “Lebanon: between aspiration of changes and the ancient regime” and edited by Marco Di Donato and Patrizia Manduchi, is available here. Thanks to the collaboration with Lebanese academicians and a well-structured field research performed in the country, authors have been able to present an unusual point of view with respect to some crucial issues that are affecting nowadays Lebanon, with the aim of providing “food for thought” and contribute to the debate related to the immediate future of the country and the role that youth can eventually play.
